

2024 in Review: Mindhive's Growth & Next Steps

Dear all,

As we wrap up 2024, I want to take a moment to express my gratitude.

Your belief in what we're building made everything we achieved this year possible — and what a year it's been. Together, we redefined enterprise collaboration with the Mindhive platform, launched game-changing multi-agent and proxy capabilities through System Operating, and helped organisations around the globe unlock productivity at unprecedented levels. We strengthened our partnerships, secured key agreements, and laid the groundwork for a new era of enterprise augmentation. Read more about the strong foundation we built this year here.

What stands out most isn't just what we built but how we built it: collaborating closely with you, solving the toughest challenges, and pioneering new ways to connect, ideate, and thrive.

Together, we're pushing the boundaries of what's possible for enterprises: solutions that empower teams, platforms that make organisations smarter, and tools that inspire action and creativity. The next chapter of enterprise collaboration starts with your partnership — thank you for being part of this journey.

As we look toward 2025, expect to see even more intuitive collaboration tools, richer AI proxy-driven capabilities, human + machine innovative solutions to simplify workflows, and bold steps forward in redefining how enterprises operate.

The year ahead is filled with potential, and I'm excited to continue building this future with you.

Best

Bruce Muirhead

CEO & Founder